ACTIVITIES FOR GOVERNMENT OF ARGENTINA
(No. 11, page 3)

April 24 to May 15, 1979

1. New York office prepared and distributed 23 press releases.
2. The monthly economic newsletter was prepared and mailed.
3. At the request of the client, B-M researched the major companies located in Minnesota, to enable the client to decide whether to schedule a stop in that state to talk to businessmen.
4. The maps from the U.S. version of the Investor's Guide were modified and updated, and then sent out to other B-M offices for use in their versions abroad.
5. As B-M has become known as a source of information, several publications requested information on petrochemicals, photographs and a copy of the new petrochemical law.
6. In addition, B-M continued to serve the business community interests. One technical company requested background information and aid during its planned visit to Argentina, which B-M provided. In another case, B-M was able to supply information about the top-ranked foreign and national companies in Argentina to an investment banking house.

May 16 to June 15, 1979

1. New York office prepared and distributed four news releases.
2. The monthly economic newsletter was prepared and mailed.
3. B-M contacted many of the companies that attended the food processing seminar in Chicago in December 1978, to ascertain the interest level in a food fair scheduled to take place in Argentina. Because of other scheduled international events and a lack of interest, the project to publicize the fair was dropped.
4. After a Florida trade mission returned from Argentina and Brazil, B-M spoke with the participants to obtain personal reactions and general feedback in terms of the group's perception of the Argentine economy. The exercise was for back-grounding purposes, particularly since no company had any immediate plans to work with Argentina.
5. An engineering consultancy requested oil industry data, and in particular the audio-visual graphs presented in an Argentine oil seminar in Houston in mid-1978. B-M complied with the request.

6. Based upon a press release B-M sent out, one specialized trade publication requested that B-M prepare an in-depth story for feature use. The Buenos Aires office prepared the story, and New York office served as intermediary to fulfill the petition.
7. B-M coordinated arrangements for a visit to Argentina by an oil editor, who asked that we help to obtain the interviews he needed. The trip was scheduled by the Buenos Aires office.
8. The New York office staff met with the client in New York to discuss strategies, results and future plans.

June 16 to July 15, 1979

1. New York office prepared and distributed 16 press releases.
2. The monthly economic newsletter was prepared and mailed.
3. Preparations were begun and media support activities carried out for the openings of the Argentine trade offices in Chicago, Los Angeles and Houston. New York office coordinated the arrangements, while the Chicago and Los Angeles offices maintained contact with the commercial attaches, arranged interviews with the local media and distributed press releases to regional media. The offices prepared an evaluation of the events and, jointly with the resulting clips, forwarded it to the client.
4. New York office began to work with the new Argentine commercial attache in New York. Subsequently B-M was asked to advise the attache regarding a number of media proposals and promotions submitted to him.
5. New York office attended the Argentine-American Chamber of Commerce luncheon, at which time the new commercial attache was introduced.
6. Several oil trade publications requested data from B-M regarding recent events and production. The appropriate information was supplied.

July 16 to August 15, 1979

1. New York office prepared and distributed nine press releases.
2. The monthly economic newsletter was prepared and mailed.
3. Preparation began on the media support program planned for the opening of the Argentine trade office in New York, for which several visiting Argentine officials would be present. In conjunction with the project, B-M worked closely with and continuously consulted the commercial attache heading the New York trade office.

4. At the request of a trade publication, B-M made arrangements for a food technology congress scheduled in Buenos Aires in November to be covered.
5. The new schedule for the oil editor's trip to Argentina was planned and confirmed, prior to his travels during this period.

August 16 to September 15, 1979

1. New York office prepared and distributed 20 press releases.
2. The monthly economic newsletter was prepared and mailed.
3. Preparations were in full swing for the media support program planned around the opening of the Argentine trade office in New York. Press kits were prepared for the attending media, including biographies of the Argentine officials present. B-M arranged interviews for the visiting dignitaries with the trade publications, and then pursued follow-up activities with all the journalists contacted and to whom press releases announcing the event had been sent. An evaluation of the media support activities was prepared and, jointly with the resulting clips, was submitted to the client.
4. The Los Angeles office carried out a smaller-scale media support program, at the request of the commercial attache, when Trade Secretariat Adviser Camilo Aldao headed an Argentine trade mission to northern California. B-M arranged for a radio interview for Mr. Aldao, and set up a couple of press interviews. In addition, a press release was prepared and distributed to the regional media. A report on the media activities was prepared and, together with the resulting clips, was submitted to the client.
5. Continuing its support of the business community, B-M was approached by a company that had read about news emanating from B-M press releases, and requested further information. Given the area of interest, the matter was turned over to the New York commercial attache to handle.
6. B-M took charge of preparing and producing a slide presentation that was used by Under Secretary for Foreign Investments Federico Dumas during a formal presentation to a seminar in New York sponsored by the Council of the Americas and the Argentine-American Chamber of Commerce. The seminar took place the same day the trade office opened.

September 16 to October 23, 1979

1. New York office prepared and distributed 14 press releases.
2. The monthly economic newsletter was prepared and ready to start the production process.
3. B-M carried out its media support program for the Argentine trade office opening and the visiting officials. Interviews were arranged and attended, and follow-up activities involved contacting all the media originally approached. In this context, B-M was in frequent contact with the commercial attache to arrange the last-minute details and to report on progress.
4. At the request of a trade publication, New York office compiled information dealing with projected construction projects in Argentina, which was given to the publication.

ACTIVITIES OF CITY OF BERLIN/BERLIN SENAT
(No. 11, page 3)

August 1979

1. In start-up activities for the Berlin Senat, internal meetings were held to brief staffers and management on the account.
2. Initial contact was made with several German diplomats in New York and Washington. Subsequently these informational channels were maintained to expedite the normal exchange of information with Burson-Marsteller.
3. B-M staff met with the client to discuss possible programs for 1979, and for a briefing on forthcoming events.
4. Information on the Berlin Festival Weeks was supplied to a journalist writing for a new publication, who said he would periodically check with B-M to obtain updated cultural data.
5. New York staff went to Los Angeles to meet with city officials, German diplomats and other interested parties to finalize details for Berlin's participation in the Los Angeles bicentennial celebrations.

September 1979

1. Los Angeles office met with scores of city politicians, academicians, artists, producers and members of the German community to produce a series of recommendations as to Berlin's contributions to the city's bicentennial.
2. Los Angeles office, in coordination with New York office, arranged for the Goebel Trio to appear at a Los Angeles concert hall.
3. Contact was maintained and expanded with the German diplomatic community in Washington, D.C., and New York.
4. New York office met with the client to plan media support activities for a scheduled client visit to Chicago in October.
5. A freelance journalist approached B-M for orientation and introductions for a planned trip to Berlin. B-M complied, and arranged for the person to meet with cultural personalities.

October 1979

1. New York office met with local German agency to discuss possible uses of a special photo exhibit commemorating the 30th anniversary of the Berlin Airlift.

2. Maintained contact with the German diplomats to discuss progress and plan forthcoming events.
3. New York office met with officials of Syracuse University to discuss media opportunities regarding the Berlin donation to the university.
4. To kick off Sister City Bicentennial activities in Los Angeles, B-M planned and executed a media support program for the performance of the Goebel Trio. B-M researched and compiled a guest list for the event, which was topped off by a champagne and cheese reception afterward. An evaluation of the activities was prepared and submitted to the client.
5. Follow-up activities were carried out with the journalist who visited Berlin for the festivals, to provide further information.
6. New York office researched and evaluated the feasibility of a U.S. tour for the Berlin Infomobil. A close review demonstrated the project as planned to be unfeasible, and it was dropped for this year.

ATTACHMENT IV

ACTIVITIES FOR ASEA
(No. 11, page 3)

April 24 - October 23, 1979

1. Completed corporate brochure, quarterly newsletter. Publicity placed for robot show.
2. Consulted on ASEA activities in Brazil and Argentina.
3. Monitored government announcements, reports and broadcasts on energy developments, nuclear waste safety.
4. Publicized Brazilian contract award; distributed various other press releases.
5. Arranged invitation list for trade press editors on trip to Sweden.
6. Prepared and had printed quarterly client newsletter.
7. Submitted recommendations to client on nuclear energy.
8. Travelled to Sweden to participate in international advisers meeting.
9. Arranged speech in United States by client chairman.
