Ethiopia First Nation to Sign National Health Partnership Compact

Washington, D.C. (September 2, 2008) -- Ethiopia's Ministry of Health recently signed a compact with 13 international development partners and agencies aimed at helping the country reach the U.N.'s Millennium Development Goals for health, becoming the first country to do so.

The agreement provides a framework for increased and more effective health aid coordination between Ethiopia and the partners who are contributing to the development of its health sector. The Compact establishes the following:

- Guiding principles and management arrangements to be observed by Ethiopia and its development partners in order to improve the contribution of development assistance to achieving Millennium Development Goals in the health arena;
- Commitments and obligations agreed to by Ethiopia for the implementation of the Compact;
- A collective target for the levels of total health aid to be provided to Ethiopia in each year between 2009 and 2015;
- Commitments and obligations with regard to the future management of development assistance;
- Arrangements for monitoring compliance and resolving disputes, and outlines for remedies available in the event of non-compliance with the provisions of the arrangement;
- Overall Compact targets by 2010.

The Compact was signed on behalf of Ethiopia by Minister of Health Dr. Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, World Bank Country Director for Ethiopia Ken Ohashi and Ambassadors/Representatives of the various development partners.

The signing ceremony took place Aug. 26, 2008, at the Sheraton Addis Ababa in the presence of senior Ethiopian officials from the Ministries of Health, Finance and Economic Development, as well as representatives from the various bilateral and multilateral partner organizations.

Future aid agreements between Ethiopia and its partners will be framed to be fully consistent with the provisions of the Compact. Although all clauses of aid agreements that were in existence prior to the signature of this agreement continue to apply, all of the parties to the recent agreement are encouraged to make necessary modifications to increase aid effectiveness in order to ensure enhanced health of the people of Ethiopia.

Ethiopian Road Development Project Wins Prestigious World Bank Good Practice Award

WASHINGTON, D.C. June 4- The Embassy of the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia in Washington, D.C, today announced that the Ethiopian Road Sector Development Program has won a prestigious Good Practice Award from the World Bank's Independent Evaluation Group (IEG).

The road-related part of the Ethiopian Road Sector Development Program Support Project was selected, along with six other winner projects, by World Bank experts from a variety of development disciplines. The Ethiopian road sector development program was chosen in the monitoring and evaluation category from among hundreds of projects worldwide.

"The award signifies the importance of further directing the Bank's support to sectors that significantly contribute towards accelerating a sustained and people-centered economic development," Ethiopia's Ambassador to the United States Dr. Samuel Assefa said.

IEG awards recognize strong Bank performers in design, implementation, and/or monitoring and evaluation and contribution to positive development outcomes. Since 2004, IEG has annually selected a small number of winners from among hundreds of operations evaluated during the previous fiscal year for its annual Good Practice Awards.

About 45 practitioners that took part in Ethiopian projects received awards, and the Ethiopian project earned high praise during a ceremony held at the Bank's Preston Auditorium on June 3, 2008.

"The work highlighted today has contributed to positive development outcomes. I believe today's award recipients will provide examples for other work that can contribute to strengthening the impact of the World Bank Group's partnership with countries," said Vinod Thomas, the Director General of the Bank's Independent Evaluation Group

The road-related part of the Ethiopian project won its award after being recognized for strong performance in all dimensions of the evaluation. The Ethiopian Roads Authority has participated in an initiative under the Sub-Saharan Africa Transport Policy program aimed at developing best practices within the Africa region by establishing appropriate transport sector performance indicators. These indicators conform to those agreed to by the African Ministers of Transport/Infrastructure to measure the progress in achieving the Millennium Development Goals.

Based on the five-year Poverty Alleviation and Sustainable Development (PASDEP) Plan, the Ethiopian Government plans to increase the total road lengths throughout the country from 37,018 km in 2004-5 to 48,990 km by fiscal year 2009-10. With 110% of the target goals for 2006-7 met, the Ethiopian government is on course to fully meet the plan's five-year benchmarks.

The World Bank is one of the key development partners for Ethiopia. The country's relationship with the international body dates back to the 1950s and the country has benefited tremendously from it. As of December 2007, the Bank's portfolio in Ethiopia amounts to $2120 million to support the implementation of 22 ongoing and newly approved projects of which $1463 million (69%) is in the form of loans while the remaining $657 million (31%) is in the form of grants. About 47% of this portfolio is allocated for infrastructure development in the areas of roads and power.

The World Bank first began supporting the Government's Road Sector Development Program in 1998. The third phase of the project, amounting to $225 million in International Development Association (IDA) credit is currently under implementation. The Good Practice Award was given in connection with the first phase of the project.
